

DRAW YOUR FEELINGS

On a blank sheet of paper draw how you are feeling right now. The drawing doesn't need to be of anything. Use any shapes, lines, colors or squiggles you feel express your emotions.

What colors and shapes show how you feel?

SING AND SHOUT

Making music and sounds is a good way to show how we feel without having to find the right words. Can you make up a song to sing - or shout - to let it all out?

BE YOUR OWN SUPERHERO

Everybody is afraid of something. Really, everybody! Think about something you're afraid of and write a story where you are a superhero who overcomes your fear using a superpower. Next time you're afraid or have to face your fear, remember how it felt to conquer your fears in the story.

Share your story with your family

REWRITE HISTORY

Think of an event that upset you or embarrassed you. Imagine that you could go back in time and do the event differently. What would you change? How would it go if the event was the best time you ever had? Write or tell the story of the event but change it to give it a new ending.

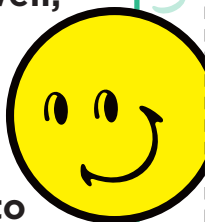

What story from your life do you want to change?

DRAW ON YOUR LOVE

Think of someone you like. Try to show how you feel about them in a drawing. What kind of marks will you make on the paper? What colors? How will you draw them? You don't have to make the picture look like them, but show how you feel about them.

RHYME TIME

Come up with as many rhyming words as you can for:

KING DOG CAT
BAG FLAG

Can you make a rhyming poem that tells a story from some of the words you've written down? You don't have to use all your words or any of these words.

Can you talk in rhyme all the time?

RAP ATTACK

Make up a rap song about your typical day or a particular event in your life and remember to explain how specific things make you feel. Try to make each line the same number of counts and rhyme every pair of lines. It doesn't matter if some lines don't rhyme but aim for an A/A/B/B pattern.

Can you send kind, positive vibes with your words?
